

PRIVACY POLICY

Tailored for Education's mission is to provide school uniforms to children in developing countries where one of the requirements for enrollment is having the proper attire. Only a small percentage of schools in these countries are free; thus the cost of the uniform coupled with the tuition is too much for the family, preventing the child from attending. By providing uniforms, Tailored for Education will lessen the financial burden families face and allow children an opportunity to attend school. Our hope is that the money saved on uniforms will go toward providing food, clean water and/or shelter for the family. In addition, the sense of pride instilled by wearing a uniform has a tremendous impact on the children's self-esteem, both inside and outside of school. When all students in the classroom are wearing the same thing, there is no distinguishing between poverty levels; everyone is on an even playing field. By providing a uniform, Tailored for Education hopes to give these children the gift of education and the opportunity to create a better life for themselves and future generations.
